Gerhana (dalam bahasa Inggris: eclipse) secara etimologi berasal dari bahasa Yunani, ekleipsis yang berarti menghilang, terabaikan, menjadi gelap. Menurut Kamus Besar Bahasa Indonesia, gerhana adalah bulan (matahari) gelap sebagian atau seluruhnya apabila dilihat dari bumi. Fenomena gerhana matahari efeknya lebih jelas dibandingkan dengan gerhana bulan seperti yang banyak tercatat dalam manuskrip-manuskrip kuno atau catatan sejarah peradaban manusia. Reaksi terhadap fenomena gerhana matahari bervariasi, tergantung kultur maupun keyakinan pada saat itu. Misalnya, gerhana matahari dianggap sebagai pertanda buruk atau hilangnya matahari karena dimakan oleh makhluk tertentu. Fenomena gerhana matahari pertama kali dijelaskan secara ilmiah oleh filsuf Yunani, Anaxagoras of Clazomenae (500-428 SM).

Gerhana matahari terjadi ketika posisi bulan terletak di antara bumi dan matahari sehingga menutup sebagian atau seluruh cahaya matahari. Karena jaraknya lebih dekat ke bumi, rata-rata 384.400 km, bulan mampu menghalangi sepenuhnya pancaran sinar matahari walau ukurannya jauh lebih kecil daripada matahari yang jarak rata-ratanya 149.680.000 km dari bumi.

Eclipse, etymologically derived from Greek, ekleipsis, which means disappeared, neglected, became dark. The phenomenon of solar eclipse effect is more pronounced compared to lunar eclipses as much recorded in ancient manuscripts or notes of history of human civilization. Reaction to the solar eclipse phenomenon vary, depending on the culture or beliefs at the time. For example, a solar eclipse is considered a bad omen or the disappearance of the Sun because it is eaten by certain beings. The solar eclipse phenomenon was first described scientifically by the philosopher Anaxagoras of Clazomenae, Greece (500-428 BCE).

Solar eclipse occurs when the moon lies between the position of the earth and the sun so that block part or all of the sunlight. Due to the distance was closer to the earth, an average of 384.400 km, moon capable of fully blocking the sun rays though its size is much smaller than our sun that the average distance of 149.680.000 km from Earth.
